PROJECT OVERVIEW

Seattle City Light crews will be working in the Wedgwood neighborhood to replace all the aging underground infrastructure that caused several unplanned power outages in this area. The excessive heatwave earlier this summer generated several equipment failures, which require extensive replacement along 35th Avenue NE. Please see the map on the back of this flier for more information.

PROJECT BENEFITS

The benefits will be new infrastructure and improved reliability of the underground system that feeds multiple businesses and residences in this busy area of Wedgwood.

PROJECT IMPACTS

- Crews will be replacing several Junction boxes, elbows, transformers, and cables that make up the underground electrical system for this area of Wedgwood.
- The emergency work area includes about 15 blocks of both commercial and residential customers. Crews will complete this work in sections.
- For the safety of our crews, City Light will need to conduct planned outages to perform the work. Some work may need to be performed at night to accommodate local businesses. Affected customers will be notified separately via a door-hanger or mailed notice with the outage date, time, and duration.
- Customers can expect parking, sidewalk, and traffic impacts along 35th Avenue NE and nearby surrounding streets. Construction signage and traffic control flaggers will redirect pedestrians and vehicles where needed.
- City Light will be performing this work under a noise variance permit. Some noise is expected due to heavy machinery, trucks, and other equipment.
